Faculty-Led Talks

Engaging the Mind public lecture series presents notable faculty members in thought-provoking talks, seminars, workshops and forums in an effort to share the University's vast knowledge with community members throughout Virginia.

More Than the Score is a free lecture series held on Saturday mornings before home football games. Hear some of UVA's top minds speak on a wide variety of topics.

One-Day UVA combines UVA faculty with experts and knowledgeable leaders for day long, in-depth learning experiences.

Reunions Seminars are academic seminars offered during UVA Reunions Weekend. Selected seminars are free and open for all to attend. These are held on Grounds in Charlottesville.

Extended Learning

Summer Jefferson Symposium is a vibrant academic program that reflects on Thomas Jefferson's ideals and life stories.

UVA at Oxford University Seminar is a unique educational experience held in Oxford, England.

Jefferson in Paris is an exploration of Thomas Jefferson's time in France, as both a visitor and as the United States Ambassador to France 1785-1789, with a particular focus on the architecture he fell in love with.

Online Resources

Learning Loop is a theme-based email newsletter that features educational events and resources – in review, happening now and coming up. Stay in the loop!

Online Library for Alumni is a free online research library for UVA alumni. There are resources for academic, business and health research including Business Book Summaries. Log in through HoosOnline.

Podcasts are audio recordings of many of our faculty talks available to listen to and share for free. Listen anytime, anywhere.

Thoughts from the Lawn blog features posts by UVA faculty related to upcoming educational lectures, books and research on relevant topics. Join the discussion and share your thoughts.
